17 May 2007

Redflex Traffic Systems Inc, a wholly owned subsidiary of Redflex Holdings Limited, is pleased to announce the execution of two new red light camera enforcement contracts with the Cities of Grand Terrace, California and Alsip, Illinois.

Grand Terrace, CA

The City of Grand Terrace, part of San Bernardino County, is centrally located between the cities of Riverside and San Bernardino along the I-215 corridor.

The contract is for up to 10 enforced intersections and is for a term of five years with two, two-year automatic renewals.

Alsip, IL

The City of Alsip is located in south-central Cook County and is a suburb that shares a northern border with the City of Chicago.

The contract is for up to 20 red light camera systems and is for a term of five years with two, one-year automatic renewals.

"We are looking forward to working with these cities on the implementation of truly world-class public safety programs. These cities support our strategic focus for the states of California and Illinois. Studies show there is a strong correlation between high population density regions and traffic accidents. Our programs will provide increased public safety in these jurisdictions that are located in highly populated regions" said Karen Finley, CEO.

Redflex Traffic Systems Inc has contracts with more than 130 USA cities, and is the largest provider of digital red light and speed enforcement services in North America. With photo speed programs in 9 states and photo red light programs across 18 states, Redflex has led the market in installed systems, installation rate and market share over the past 12 months.
